Circleville, Ohio 91st Year — 53

NATIONAL DECA WEEK—Debbie Snyder (left), Circleville High School Senior DECA President, and Sharon Snyder, Junior DECA President, hold with pride the proclamation signed by Circleville Mayor, Frank E. Barnhill, declaring the week of March 3-9, 1974, as National Distributive Education Clubs of America Week. The week's activities conclude here in Ohio with the State Leadership Conference meeting at the Columbus Sheraton Hotel Friday afternoon through Saturday night, March 8-9. Circleville DECA I and II will be represented by twelve contestants at the Conference.

Local Man Heads AID Mission

Lloyd Jonnes, a native of Circleville, has been appointed director of the United States AID Mission to Morocco it was announced by Daniel Parker, administrator of the U.S. Agency for International Development.

Jonnes, who has more than 25 years' experience working in the economics of developing countries, replaces the late Harry G. Seidel. Jonnes has been AID deputy assistant administrator for program policy coordination for more than three years and has served previously in nine overseas posts.

As AID director, Jonnes, will work with the Moroccan Government in efforts to increase food production, thereby addressing widespread problems of protein-calorie malnutrition. This will be accomplished through technical assistance and training of Moroccans in agricultural disciplines as well as through loans for development of irrigated agriculture.

LLOYD JONNES

The AID program for this northwest African nation for 1974 is estimated at about $30 million, including food for peace commodities.

Born in Columbus on Feb. 6, 1924, Jonnes attended Circleville High School. Attended Hobart college from 1941 to 1943 and was graduated from Antioch University in 1948. He studied graduate economics and law at the University of Zurich in 1948 and 1949 and was a Harvard Fellow in 1967 and 1968.

Following his studies at the University of Zurich, Jonnes was an intern with the National Labor Relations Board prior to joining the economic Cooperation Administration, an AID predecessor in 1949 as an economist on Marshall plan matters in Bern, Switzerland.

Named an assistant program officer in Vienna with the Foreign Operations Administration in 1953, Jonnes was later reassigned to London as an economist in 1956. He was an economic adviser and assistant program adviser in Libya from 1957 until he was named regional planning officer for the Bureau of Asia and the Far East in Washington in 1959. In 1960 he was appointed officer in charge of Yugoslavia-Poland affairs and in 1961 he was assigned to Paris as U.S. development Assistance Adviser with the organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.

From 1964 to 1967 he served as program officer with the U.S. AID Mission in Turkey and in 1967-68 he studied under a fellowship at the Center for International Affairs at Harvard University.

Jonnes served two years with the U.S. Aid Mission to Vietnam as economic counselor of the embassy and associate director of the AID Mission for Program Economics.

In 1969 he was assigned to Djakarta, Indonesia where he served until June of 1970 when he was named deputy assistant administrator of AID in Washington.

A veteran of the U.S. Army in the European Theater during World War II, Jonnes is married and the father of three children.

He is the son of the late Dr. Lloyd Jonnes and Barbara Jonnes who resides in Minnesota.

Israeli Crisis Hinges On Meir

JERUSALEM (AP) — Premier Golda Meir delayed submission of her resignation today as a stream of political colleagues called at her home to urge her to remain at the head of the Israeli government.

Mrs. Meir telephoned President Ephraim Katzir early today and told him she would call on him this morning to return her mandate to form a new Israeli government because of criticism of the new minority cabinet she had lined up.

But a night's sleep and the pleading of her associates in the Labor Alignment apparently cooled Mrs. Meir's anger.

A spokesman said she put off the visit to Katzir until late afternoon, and other aides said she was waiting to see if her associates could swing dissident members of the party behind her cabinet list. Mrs. Meir announced her resignation at a meeting of Labor party executives Sunday night after some of her party's members in parliament criticized the new minority government she planned to present Tuesday.

"This is my final decision," said the 75-year-old grandmother as she stalked out of the party caucus.

Party leaders flocked to Mrs. Meir's Jerusalem home and pleaded until past midnight with her to continue at the head of the government. But Deputy Premier Yigal Allon reported she was "firm in her decision."

Mrs. Meir has led the Israeli government since 1969, and her decision to bow out plunged the country deeper into the political uncertainty that has beset it since Mrs. Meir's Labor Alignment lost ground in the Dec. 31 elections.

Subsequently, Defense Minister Moshe Dayan refused to join the new cabinet, and the National Religious Party refused to join the Labor Alignment in a new coalition, making it impossible for Mrs. Meir to form a majority in the Knesset, Israel's parliament.

In the shock of Mrs. Meir's surprise announcement, the other Labor leaders concentrated on trying to get her to reconsider and did nothing about picking someone else to try to form a government. Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir, Allon and Foreign Minister Abba Eban were considered the most likely to be tapped.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Meir and the cabinet with which she fought the October war and the Dec. 31 election remain in office as a caretaker regime.

Mrs. Meir's walkout came 48 hours after crucial talks with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger on arrangements for negotiations between Syria and Israel to separate their troops on the Golan Heights.

Political analysts said Mrs. Meir's move might not hamper progress toward a disengagement agreement since most leading Israeli politicians favor one. But they said the splits in the Labor Alignment, which is still Israel's largest political party, would weaken Israel's hand in further bargaining with the Arabs.

Mrs. Meir has long wanted to retire but stayed on at the urging of her colleagues despite a severe attack of shingles and a sharp drop in popularity as a result of Israel's initial setbacks in the October war.

Heath Unable To Form Coalition

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath is going to have to abandon his attempt to stay in office and will have to recommend that Labor party leader Harold Wilson be given a chance to form a government, says a senior member of Heath's Conservative party.

The source said Heath's failure to form a new cabinet became inevitable after Liberal party leader Jeremy Thorpe rejected the Conservative party chief's overture for a coalition that would have given him some chance of putting together a majority in the new House of Commons.

Heath met with Thorpe on Saturday and then informed his cabinet Sunday night of his failure. After the cabinet meeting, he met again with Thorpe for 30 minutes. A Conservative spokesman said the meeting had been held by mutual consent "to clarify points made in the previous discussion."

Thorpe called a caucus of Liberal party members of the House of Commons today to discuss his decision.

In the general election last Thursday, the Laborites won 301 seats in Commons to 296 for the Conservatives, but the Conservatives topped the Laborites in the popular vote by 200,000.

Since neither major party got the 318 seats necessary for a majority in the 635-seat house, either one to form a government must draw get the support of the 14 Liberals and some of the 24 Scottish and Welsh nationalists, militant Irish Protestants and independents who were also elected.

Thorpe has not disclosed his conditions for forming a coalition with the Conservatives, but he has made clear that he wants proportional representation introduced for future national elections. Last Thursday the Liberals won nearly 20 per cent of the popular vote, which would have given them more than 120 seats if proportional representation had been in effect.

Under the present British system, each party runs candidates in the separate election districts, and the high man in each race is elected to the House of Commons. The leader of the party who wins a majority of the seats then becomes prime minister and names the government; if no party wins a majority, the outgoing prime minister can hang on until he is defeated on a vote of confidence in Commons. Under proportional representation, the seats in Commons would be divided according to the proportion of the popular vote a party won.

Wilson also would have a hard time getting the support of the Liberals for such radical Labor programs as nationalization of more industries and renegotiation of the terms of Britain's membership in the European Common Market.

But Wilson might form a minority government and not push controversial legislation in hopes of staving off defeat in Commons until he could go into another election with improved chances of winning a majority.

Mrs. Hearst Pleas For Word With Daughter

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — "I know that pretty soon God will touch their hearts and they'll send you home again," Mrs. Randolph A. Hearst said in a quavering voice.

She addressed her comment to her kidnapped daughter Sunday during a plea to the girl's abductors to break their 11-day silence.

Mr. and Mrs. Hearst, appearing haggard from their monthlong vigil, asked the kidnapers of their 20-year-old daughter Patricia to allow her to communicate with them.

Mrs. Hearst, her voice breaking and on the verge of tears, addressed her daughter through news reporters:

"Patty, honey, your father is doing everything in his power, and I want you to know that millions of people all over the world are praying for you."

"I know it's a long time, sweetheart, and you keep up your courage. We'll keep praying," said the black-clad mother.

Hearst, editor and president of the San Francisco Examiner, said: "We might add to the people who are holding you that you could be allowed to send us a letter or get in touch with us by tape."

The mysterious Symbionese Liberation Army has claimed responsibility for dragging the college student out of her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4. The SLA has said she is being held as a prisoner of war under the international rules of the Geneva Convention.

The SLA has sent four communications to Hearst in the past month, three of them on tape. The last communique was Feb. 22.

"I'm sure she is all right," Hearst said during his brief appearance Sunday. "I believe she is being held under the Geneva Convention. We just would like to say hello to her."

Hearst said he knew the abductors wouldn't allow him to see her.

FBI assistant special agent John Kelly, asked Sunday if he thought Hearst's plea would trigger a response, replied, "Your guess is as good as mine." He said there were no developments in the case.

Shipbuilding Boom Seen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Despite a sluggish economy for many industries, Great Lakes shipyards are planning to expand their facilities and work forces in the biggest shipbuilding boom since World War II.

Two Great Lakes shipyards are undertaking multimilliondollar expansions to build 1,000-foot freighters, which many industry sources say will become the standard for Great Lakes ships.

The industry boom rests on several factors.

Record demands for steel has meant a need for more iron-ore carrying vessels and more ships are needed due to a recent boost in Great Lakes coal trade.

Think Explosion May Have Caused Worst Jet Crash

PARIS (AP) — A French official speculated today that an explosion just after takeoff may have caused history's worst air disaster, the crash of a Turkish DC10 that killed all 346 persons reported aboard.

The American-built airliner crashed in the Ermenonville forest, 23 miles north of Paris, five minutes after it took from Orly Airport Sunday on a flight from Istanbul to London. Turkish Airlines said the plane was loaded to capacity with 334 passengers and 12 crew members.

There was no indication when the casualty list would be made public. But the airline's European manager said the names of 200 to 250 of the passengers indicated they were British or American.

The U. S. Embassy in London announced that among the Americans killed were the embassy's cultural attache, Dr. Wayne Wilcox, 41, of North Liberty, Ind., his wife and two of their four children.

Thirty-eight of the passengers were Japanese college graduates on a tour of Europe before joining firms in Japan. The Japanese travel agency that arranged their trip said they were sending 45 relatives to Paris to identify and claim the remains.

The weather was sunny, and no hint of trouble came from the plane. But "the fact that debris and bodies were found in a village more than 10 kilometers (6 miles) from the accident tends to prove that an explosion occurred in flight," said Aymar Achille-Fould, a top official of the French Transport Ministry.

Persons in the area of the crash said they heard an explosion, but they could not agree whether it occurred before or after the plane hit the ground.

Turkey's communications minister, Ferda Guley, said "considering the world situation," he did not rule out sabotage.

Part of the plane's flight recorder was found before dark Sunday, and searchers were looking for the rest in hopes that it would give some clue to what happened in the minutes between takeoff and crash.

It was the first crash of one of the wide-bodied, McDonnell-Douglas trijets since the plane went into general service four years ago. A total of 216 persons had boarded the plane in Paris for the hop to London, most of them because a wildcat strike by ground engineers at London's Heathrow Airport forced British Airways to cancel all its European flights.

The huge jet slammed into a wooded slope near a highway and close to three villages, but the area in which it hit was uninhabited.

The highest previous death toll in a plane crash was 176 when a Soviet airliner crashed near Moscow in October, 1972, and when a Jordanian jet burst into flames on landing at Kano, Nigeria, in January, 1973.

Plane Hijacked Burned By Arabs

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — Two young Arabs who hijacked a British airliner and surrendered say their group plans to attack other British and American planes because the countries supported Israel in the October war.

The Arabs surrendered peacefully to Dutch police Sunday after releasing the 92 passengers and 10 crew members of the hijacked British VC10, drenching the inside of the $6.9 million jet with the plane's liquor supply and then setting it afire on a runway at Schiphol Airport.

Two persons suffered minor injuries sliding out of the plane, Dutch authorities reported. The aircraft was virtually destroyed.

A Dutch civil aviation official said the hijackers made no demands when they surrendered but said in broken English they had to "take action. We had no alternative. Politics amounts to nothing."

The official said the pair were armed with small Czech pistols but were persuaded to unload them and hand over the ammunition.

Maj. Erik Gerritsen, head of the Dutch state police at the airport, said the men identified themselves only as Abu Said and Abu Ali. One of them told a Dutch official he lived on the West Bank of the Jordan river until Israel occupied the area in the 1967 war, but they would give no more information about themselves.

The Palestine Liberation Organization, which unites the major Palestine guerrilla groups, disclaimed any connection with the hijacking and denounced such operations.

The plane was on a flight from Bombay to London, and the two hijackers were believed to be among 25 passengers who boarded in Beirut. They took over the airliner 90 minutes later while it was over Yugoslavia.

Airport sources at Beirut reported, apparently incorrectly, that the hijackers would take the plane to Athens in an effort to win immediate freedom for two Palestinian guerrillas who killed five persons and wounded 55 others at the Athens airport last August. But instead the plane flew to Amsterdam.

Officials at Schiphol, Holland's international airport, said they tried to keep the flight from landing but granted permission after the hijackers told the control tower they had only enough fuel for 20 more minutes.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices slipped lower in light trading today, extending the declines of the two previous sessions.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 6.18 at 845.74, and declining issues were double the number of gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said the negative atmosphere stemmed at least partly from uncertain political prospects in Britain and Israel and from Friday's indictments of several former key aides to President Nixon.

"There's a lot of caution because of these things, but there's no heavy selling," said Newton Zinder at E.F. Hutton & Co.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was off .11 at 97.04.

The Big Board's composite index of close to 1,500 common stocks fell .36 to 50.87.

$3,000 Fire Riddles Mobile Home

Estimated damages of more than $3,000 were caused by a fire in a mobile home owned by Lawrence Davis, Route 1, South Bloomingville, Saturday at 5:10 p.m. Twelve firemen from the Laurelville Volunteer Fire Department responded to the call in Vinton Township.

The Davises were not home at the time of the fire but a party living next door saw the smoke coming from the 1973 mobile home called the fire department. Firemen estimated the damages to the trailer at $3,000 but could not determine the extent of damage to the contents due to the extensive heat and smoke damage.

A small dog left inside the trailer suffered smoke inhalation and died later. The cause of the fire was a burner left on under a skillet and the flames were confined to the kitchen area.

Grammies Are Awarded To Top Stars

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The melody of the Grammy Awards lingers today for the winners—Roberta Flack, Stevie Wonder, Bette Midler and more.

Members of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences celebrated the year gone by with a gala show Saturday night.

They chose "Killing Me Softly With His Song," a musical tribute to music, as record of the year, and its artist, Roberta Flack, as top pop female vocalist. It was the second consecutive year Miss Flack won the record of the year award.

The prestigious "album of the year" citation went to Wonder, the blind composer-singer-musician for "Innervision." He claimed the most Grammys of the show—four in all.

In the ceremony's most emotional moments, Wonder, wearing dark glasses, was led to the stage first by his mother, then by a brother and sister. He paid tribute to his family, insisting that his mother take one of the awards, and recalled how he almost died last summer in an auto accident.

"I thank God he's alive to accept these awards," said his mother, Loulah Haraway of Detroit.

Wonder accepted one of his trophies in memory of a singer Jim Croce, who was killed in a plane crash last year.

In addition to the album of the year, Wonder's awards were best male pop vocal, "You are the Sunshine of My Life," best rhythm and blues vocal, "Superstition," and best composer of rhythm and blues for "Superstition." "Innervisions" also was named best engineered album.

The flamboyant, red-haired Miss Midler, whose singing style is reminiscent of the 1940s, accepted her Grammy as best new artist of the year with the exclamation, "Isn't this a hoot!"

'Snooty' Finds Home

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Maybe it was love at first bite.

"Snooty," a three-week-old piglet has been adopted—and nursed—by "Puddles," a black collie-poodle female dog.

The relationship began late last month when "Snooty" was introduced to the tiny, newborn piglet at the Cliff Schatzle farm.

"Puddles" warily sniffed the new arrival and immediately accepted him. Now "Snooty" is spoiled.

The Schatzles tried to feed the pig with a small baby bottle, but he didn't seem interested.

The two animals sleep near each other in the Schatzle home.

Oddly, the dog has never had a litter, but is able to provide milk possibly due to a false pregnancy, according to Dr. Jack Swagler, Hamilton veterinarian.

The pig "seems to be getting enough nourishment," says Mrs. Schatzle.

Open Letter

Dear Friends,
A properly run ambulance service is a great responsibility. The improper and haphazard moving and transportation of an injured patient can cause further injury and even death. That is why our trained attendants evaluate the patient's obvious injuries before moving him, in order to render necessary first aid and provide the correct method of transportation to the hospital.

City Police Probe Vandalisms, Theft

Three cases of vandalism and a theft in Circleville over the weekend are being investigated by city police.

Eddie Moore, 230 E. Main St., notified police that someone broke the antenna on his car Saturday night or Sunday morning while it was parked at his residence.

Vandals damaged the ladies room at the Church of Christ in Christian Union, 477 E. Ohio St., over the weekend.

An air hose was taken from Roy's Arco Station, Route 56 and the Kingston Pike, sometime Sunday night or Monday morning.

Jacqueline Brown, Laurelville, reported the theft of her handbag, containing cash and credit cards, from a cart Saturday while she was shopping at the Kroger Store on Lancaster Pike.

Man Given Two Citations In Accident

Two persons were treated and released at Berger Hospital for injuries sustained in a single-car accident 7:35 p.m. Sunday.

According to the report taken by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy J. Phillip Brown, Virgil A. Hix, 28, Route 1, Stoutsville, was driving north on Williamsport-Palestine Road when he failed to negotiate a curve in the road.

Going left of center, the auto went into a ditch, rolling over and landing on its wheels twice before coming to rest on its top.

Hix received a laceration to the forehead and abrasions and contusions to the left leg. Clark M. Maughmer, 28, Route 3, passenger in the auto, received a laceration to the forehead, left knee injuries, and possible chest injuries.

Deputy Brown cited Hix with reckless operation and an unsafe vehicle.

Arrests
Phillip Donaldson, 25, Ashville, parking on roadway.
Harold L. Young, 52, Delaware, driving while intoxicated and no operator's license.
Warren E. Eldridge, 50, St. Albans, W. Va., driving while intoxicated.
Max Kasler, 25, 325 Edwards Road, driving while intoxicated.
William Joyce, 22, 1108 S. Court St., disorderly conduct.
Rose Heeter, 48, 301 Sumpter Ave., disorderly conduct.
Charles W. Williams, 49, Chillicothe, driving while intoxicated.

Eldred Parsons has been named division manager of the new Scioto Division, a combination of the Circleville, Chillicothe and Waverly districts of Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company.

Parsons came to the company in 1941 as a clerk at Nelsonville. He was granted a leave of absence in 1943 to serve in the Army and returned in 1946. The other positions he held include a travelling auditor, chief clerk, clerical supervisor, assistant district manager, district manager.

He also attended Ohio University. Parsons is past president and area development chairman of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce, past president of the Circleville Rotary Club, past secretary-treasurer of the Nelsonville Rotary Club, member of the Chillicothe Rotary and Chamber of Commerce, member of the board of directors for the Ross County Community Improvement Corporation, member of the Downtown Associates and management advisor for the International Management Council of South Central Ohio.

He and his wife, Dorothy, live at 58 Timber Lane Drive, Chillicothe. They have two daughters.

Ronald L. Hand has been named assistant division manager of the Scioto Division.

Hand served in the Marine Corps before joining Columbus and Southern in 1947 as a meter reader, but was re-inducted in 1950 then rejoined the company in 1951.

He has also served as customer service representative, chief clerk, assistant district manager, and finally district manager.

Hand is past president of the Pike County Chamber of Commerce and a member of the board of directors; he is also the Pike County Area Development Director for the Southeastern Ohio Regional Council.

Mr. and Mrs. Hand live at 422 Hillside Avenue in Waverly. They have two sons.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Charities Can Be Good Or Bad

DEAR ABBY: You stated that you were "delighted" when, in lieu of a Christmas gift, a fan in Tulsa sent you a signed check, inviting you to make it payable to a charity of your choice.

When my husband was sick in the hospital, we were advised that in lieu of flowers, friends had made contributions to THEIR favorite charities. This was a thoughtful gesture, but what if WE disapprove of the charity or cause which benefited in our name? Perhaps it is a political group or cause with which we do not want to be identified, and on whose mailing list we do not want to be.

Answer that one, please! DISAPPROVING CONTRIBUTORS DEAR DISAPPROVING: You make a good point. You can't prevent people from making contributions to THEIR favorite charities or causes in your name. But you can refrain from sending signed checks to those who could conceivably put you in that uncomfortable position.

For yet another reaction to that suggestion, read on:

DEAR ABBY: Sending a check for charity puts the burden on the receiver. He has to mail the check on, decide which favorite charity to choose, and then remember to say, "thank you." The sender admits that he is too lazy to find a charity or make the gift, yet he wants credit for sending the gift.

The whole concept of starting out to buy a gift already price-tagged is wrong. I'd rather receive a 39-cent cookie cutter from someone who knows I love to bake than a $50 check just because I happen to be on someone's Christmas list.

MRS. T. L. K.: DOVER, OHIO DEAR ABBY: Some time within the last five years I read an article in a newspaper which stated that a man had figured out how to square a circle!

I remember that this man's son was studying math, and that's how he became interested in the project. The man worked on the problem for months before he came up with the solution which led to the discovery of a new kind of curve. The article said that a university math professor confirmed the solution as correct. When I mention that a man actually squared a circle I am told that it cannot be done, and that I'm either out of my mind or I must be dreaming.

Abby, I can't be the only person in America who read this article, but I am not able to come up with the proof. Please, please help me. I am beginning to doubt my own sanity. Isn't there some math genius in your vast reading audience who can come to my rescue? BARBARA G. IN WILKES-BARRE, PA.

DEAR BARBARA: We'll soon find out. Geniuses?

Energy Pinch Aids Mass Transit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The energy crisis may bring a ray of sunshine through the clouds for big city legislators who have fought for years to get the state actively involved in mass transit systems.

The gasoline shortage, car pools and other developments growing out of the fuel shortage serve to strengthen their arguments. And, at the same time, they make the arguments difficult to refute.

Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, proposed years ago that the state build a monorail to serve the state's three largest cities. He proposed putting the monorail between lanes of Interstate 71 from Cleveland to Columbus.

Lawmakers then considered the proposal impractical. Now some legislators say there is a real possibility of rail passenger service connecting Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton and Cincinnati along existing tracks of the Penn Central Railroad.

Calabrese is chairman of the Legislative Service Commission Study Committee on Rapid Transit. The committee is talking with Amtrak officials to see if the service can be started. The committee hopes to have some cost figures in hand by mid-March.

Rep. Patrick A. Sweeney, D-6 Cleveland, is asking the legislature to appropriate $5 million as start-up money for the project, mostly to upgrade the tracks. He predicts the state's share of any operating losses would be "only about $200,000" a year.

An agreement with Amtrak would stipulate that the state would have to pay two-thirds of any operating losses the system might incur. There is a chance that federal funds to assist in rebuilding the crossings could be made available, the LSC staff said. It now is studying federal legislation that might help get a grant.

Aside from the intercity proposal,

Sweeney and Calabrese also are pushing for funds to help transit systems within the cities. Aid would be contingent in part on building systems that connect to lines that lead to other cities.

Sweeney's bill also asks an additional $15 million for the state's new program of grants to local mass transit systems. The initial appropriation for the program this biennium—1973-1975—was less than $3 million.

Calabrese introduced a bill that seeks to provide county, regional and publicly owned mass transit systems with the opportunity to gain funds needed to expand and improve service, increase ridership and lower fares. His bill carries a price tag of $40 million.

Chemical Miracles

Regulating the chemistry of the human body is nothing new. Physicians for centuries have been prescribing medicines and supplements to augment chemicals produced by body organs. But never before has the science of chemical regulation of the human body assumed quite the emphasis or direction it is given today.

Not a few scientists now envision the time when man will be able to control thought, action and development of the human body simply by controlling body chemistry to a minute degree. There is a technological revolution in this part of the scientific world which is giving the scientist major breakthroughs in his limited knowledge of the workings of the human body.

Beyond the possible cures for physical malfunctions, it is suggested quite seriously by some scientists that man's mind might be controlled by chemical regulation. Limited applications of this principle, particularly in laboratory experiments with animals, have demonstrated only further research developments are needed to bring behavior control through chemistry into reality.

That success in the regulation of the mind through chemistry, or by any other means, carries with it ominous possibilities is obvious.

It was 70 years ago that Ernest Henry Starling, the British scientist, wrote, "If control of the different functions of the body be largely determined by the production of definite chemical substances within the body, the discovery of the nature of these substances will enable us to impose any desired phase in these functions and so to acquire an absolute control over the workings of the human body."

The only part of this prediction which a modern scientist might change is the first word, by replacing "if" with "when."

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, March 4, the 63rd day of 1974. There are 302 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1681, England's King Charles II granted William Penn a charter for what is now Pennsylvania.

On this date:

In 1789, the first U.S. Congress convened in Federal Hall in New York City but had to adjourn because no quorum was present.

In 1791, Vermont became the 14th state.

In 1829, the White House was mobbed by an unruly crowd at the inauguration of President Andrew Jackson.

In 1917, Republican Jeannette Rankin of Montana became the first woman to serve in Congress.

In 1943, American forces defeated the Japanese in the Pacific War battle of the Bismarck Sea.

In 1945, Soviet troops reached the Baltic Sea in their drive across the German province of Pomerania.

Ten years ago: A federal jury in Chattanooga, Tenn., convicted President James Hoffa of the Teamsters union of tampering with a federal jury in 1962.

Five years ago: More than one million Chinese turned out in Peking to demonstrate against the Soviet Union after clashes on the Soviet-Chinese border.

One year ago: President Nixon said in a radio speech that the quality of life was on the upturn in American cities and towns, and an hour of crisis had passed.

Today's birthday: South African singer Miriam Makeba is 42.

Thought for today: Life is too short to be small. — Benjamin Disraeli, British Prime Minister, 1804-1881.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The phrase "within the safety of the home" becomes almost ludicrous when the number of severe accidents that occur within it are brought to the attention of the doctor.

Lacerations of the wrists, the hands, the arms occur with frightening frequency despite the warnings against forcing open windows and glass doors.

"I should have known better" is hindsight, but it hardly compensates for carelessness.

Windows that become stuck because of temperature changes or because of being freshly painted can become irritating problems. As anger mounts and blind determination takes hold, the trip to the emergency room at the hospital is already on the horizon.

It takes remarkably little pressure to push the hands or wrists through a pane of glass.

Children especially are candidates for such injuries. Only those who know how to deal with the problem of resistant windows should undertake to do so.

Each year a diabetes detection program is publicized for one week. The drive, instead, should be a 52 weeks-a-year, never-ending one to flush out into the open the diabetic and the pre-diabetic who may have subtle symptoms that are not obvious.

Early detection of high blood sugar makes the treatment and control of diabetes simple and effective, and offers great promise for a normal, productive, happy and healthy life.

Many cases of diabetes, when found early, can be kept under control by diet alone. The use of insulin by injection and oral medication now makes diabetes a controllable disease.

Contrary to general impression, tuberculosis has not entirely disappeared and still exists as a serious threat to health in every community in the nation.

The privileged and the poor alike are susceptible to tuberculosis.

It is true that there has been a steady decline in the severity and the frequency of the disease. Modern medicines can keep early tuberculosis controlled.

But the only way that a tuberculosis victim can be given the advantages of modern medicine is by early recognition of his case. Routine X-rays of the chest can now be performed with the barest minimal radiation. Those who falsely fear radiation hazards and therefore avoid regular X-ray checkups can do themselves a marked injustice, especially if there is any evidence of an unexplained cough.

Murder Parted

By JIM BISHOP

True Love. Sometimes it's the mating of a fake with a fool...

Helen Walsh comes to mind. She was 16, a Brooklyn girl with long slender legs and a mouth to match which ran at right angles. Momma Walsh had a boardinghouse on Jay Street. Someday, sometime, a gentle guy with a steady job might take a room and — who knows?

But Helen didn't care for boarders. Neighborhood boys who took her to the movies and grew six extra hands in the darkness bored her stiff. She wanted a superman. A tough guy.

The only intelligence Helen Walsh displayed was in not entering the Miss Brooklyn Contest. She wore the expression of one who lives in funeral parlors. Deep down—not too deep—under that flat chest beat the heart of a gun moll.

She searched. Hunted. Attended parties everywhere. Then she met him. He was a mannerly kid with long chestnut hair, a thick sullen mouth, and eyes like laser beams. He was introduced as Two-Gun Crowley.

Helen felt those cold shivers. She couldn't seem to draw a deep breath. No boy had ever done that to her by staring and not saying hello.

After a week, she brought him home. Helen introduced him as "Mr. Crowley, my friend." The Walshes looked him over. Daddy Walsh asked the boy what he did for a living. "I'm a plasterer," Crowley said.

He wasn't stretching the truth by much. His hobby was plastering policemen all over parking lots and lovers' lanes. A gangster can't make much of a living out of killing cops, but he can make a lovely death.

Momma Walsh heard him say he earned $50 a week. She told Daddy he would make a fine son-in-law. Considering that Helen was only 16, Mom was rushing the season, but getting a husband for a girl with a face like Helen is like buying a lottery ticket every week.

Two-Gun fell in love. Truly. He thought so much of Helen that he went out and stole $500 to buy her an engagement ring. "You," he said softly, "belong to me." Helen felt those shivers again.

Crowley had a reputation of being sexually abrupt with girls. But Helen was different. He parked his car in the Canarsie marshes and held her hand under a hazy moon. Sometimes he kissed Helen on the forehead.

One evening he caught her smiling at another boy. Two-Gun almost tore her left hand off getting his ring back. He threw it in a ditch and took her home.

In the morning, he was on hands and knees in the ditch. He found the ring.

It was back on Helen's hand the next night. "Don't ever let me catch you—" he said. Miss Walsh learned. She never let him catch her smiling again.

They were in a woodland in Long Island, sitting in the car, going through the repetitive catechism of you-belong-to-me when a twig cracked.

Crowley reached under the front seat and hooked his fingers into two .38s. Patrolman Frederick Hirsch smiled with understanding. "What are you two doing parked out here?" he said in a nice way. In an equally nice way, Crowley fired 11 shots into Hirsch's face.

Helen saw nothing but blue smoke. The tires squealed on the turns. He begged her to stop screaming. The girl was sure police would be waiting at her house. So she stuck with Two-Gun. She became his saintly moll.

Policemen were volunteering for extra duty to find Crowley. Helen learned what it is like to live for weeks inside a bare flat, afraid to go out for bread and milk. "I'll stick with you forever," she swore.

Manhattan headquarters received a tip that Crowley was holed up in a flat on West 90th Street. Three hundred cops armed with riot guns and tear gas occupied every roof and alley. A hundred others roused neighbors from their homes.

Then the action began. It didn't last long. Crowley never considered it a fair shake to face policemen who had guns in their hands. So after he got nicked a few times he gave himself up—a surly Irish kid and a dopey girl. A police inspector knew that Crowley would die in the electric chair.

"I'll get you a steak," he said. Two-Gun was outraged. "What!" he roared. "On Friday?" So they took him downtown. At his trial, the girl who loved him was the state's star witness.

Before he died in Sing Sing, Helen begged to see him one last time. "Let me tell him that I love him," she begged. The authorities declined. So Helen wrote a note and called Crowley "a yellow bum."

He wept with rage before they took him to the chair. True love. Sometimes it's the mating of a fake with a fool...

Unlike many rodents, the woodchuck does not lay up stores for winter. Instead he fattens on greens all summer and may weigh 14 pounds when he settles down for his long winter's sleep.

Business World Editions

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — An indicator of the nation's mood that will be watched closely over the next few months is the amount of deductions taxpayers claim on their federal income tax returns. The belief is widely held that taxpayers might have turned a bit cynical because of rising prices and the realization that the President of the United States, no less, paid smaller taxes than some working people.

One former Internal Revenue Service commissioner, Johnnie M. Walter, has been quoted as saying that disgruntled taxpayers may deprive the government of as much as $1 billion in revenue by adding to their deductions. While government officials have named no such precise figure, they are prepared for a situation in which more returns will be weighted in the taxpayer's favor.

So far, however, the nation's biggest tax preparer, H & R Block, maintains that the temper of taxpayers is being kept within bounds.

Said Henry Block, president: "In spite of everything we've heard and read that says this year's taxpayer is out to fleece Uncle Sam, we see no such movement and don't expect to."

In his opinion, fear and publicity about such an eventuality is snowballing, but not the event itself. However, he says it's taking longer to make out taxpayers' returns than it did a year ago.

And, he concedes, the reason is that there is "a heightened interest by millions of individuals to get what is legally theirs."

Block said he disagreed that taxpayers were seeking questionable deductions. "People are telling us 'I want to take as much as I can, but legitimately,' and they're pressing for every proper item, but our interviews confirm the honesty of the American public."

While it is too early to determine with finality what the impact on revenues will be, if any mass disillusionment does reflect itself in federal tax returns it could produce a very nasty situation.

It could, in fact, lead to further disillusionment if a taxpayer attempts to obtain what he feels is a legitimate deduction and is overruled by the auditors.

In some instances the question of whether or not a person is entitled to a deduction is almost a matter of opinion. Rules are written to be hard and fast, but not even the IRS regulations can cover each situation.

Deductions, therefore, is probably the one area of the income tax return in which the taxpayer can freely use his own judgment. He's in serious trouble if he fails to report income, because that's not a matter of opinion. But deductions often are.

A good measure of the American mood will be available this year when the deductions are compiled and analyzed. It will be better than a survey, because the opinions will be backed by hard cash.

Class Action Suit Filed Over Interest

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A class action suit Friday charged three Cincinnati banks with violating Ohio's usury laws by charging more than eight per cent a year for auto loans. Named were the Fifth Third Bank, Central Trust and Provident. The action in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court sought a total of $16.3 million for 36,000 persons.

Committee Action Set In Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Most of the action will be in committees rather than on the floor this week when the 110th General Assembly reconvenes Tuesday.

Measures in committee include gun control laws, no-fault divorce, no-fault insurance, a bill regulating abortions and landlord-tenant legislation.

"That's where the action is this week," said House Speaker Pro Tem Vernal Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston. "We've gotten the emergency legislation out."

The law lowering the Ohio speed limit to 55 miles per hour was signed Friday, taking the heat off the General Assembly to pass it by Sunday or lose $160 million this year in federal money.

The only major floor action scheduled so far this week — although bills could be added to the calendar — is a measure to change Ohio's driver license laws. It will be on the Senate floor Tuesday.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Donald Woodland, D-16 Columbus, is aimed at lowering the age to obtain an operator's or chauffeur's license from 21 to 18, conforming it with federal law that gave 18-to-21-year-olds the right to vote.

Under current law, nobody under 21 can have a chauffeur's license and the driver's license issued to 16-to-21-year-olds is only a probationary license.

The permanent driver's license, under the bill, could be issued at age 18. A probationary license would still be issued from 16 to 18.

Not affected by the bill would be a current law which permits the registrar of motor vehicles to issue a restricted license to persons 14 or 15 if they could prove a hardship.

Gun control measures — including a proposed constitutional amendment to ban handguns and a law to ban handguns known as "Saturday Night Specials" — are expected to be voted upon in the House Judiciary Committee Wednesday morning.

Bills providing for no-fault divorce, regulation of abortions and definition of the rights of landlords and tenants are all set for hearing in the Senate Judiciary Committee following the Wednesday floor session.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-7 Cincinnati, chairman of the Senate Insurance Committee, plans to send four bills dealing with no-fault auto insurance to a subcommittee following a final hearing Tuesday.

Woods Fire On Dunkle Road Keeps Firemen Busy

The Circleville Fire Department worked until after 10 p.m. Sunday night and then returned again at 5 a.m. this morning to a woods fire on Dunkle Road. Having arrested the fire late last night, firemen returned to the station only to be called back to the area again early today when a report came in that the flames had again gotten out of control driven by high winds which were prevalent during the early morning hours.

Lt. Jones, a spokesman for the department, said the firefighting methods were hampered to an extensive degree by the high winds, dryness of the surrounding shrubs and a few dead trees in the area. He continued with his statement saying that the tentative theory of the cause of the fire was children playing with matches. Firemen found the fire had started with one tree which contained honey and they believe the tree was set on fire to get the honey.

Calls came into the department most of the night and by 5 this morning a call came in that the fire had again gotten out of control. Firemen report that the fire reported this morning had broken out in a different place from the original honey tree.

Lt. Jones said the woods on fire adjoins the first row of houses east of the Circleville corporation limit. He said although most of the residents in the area are alarmed because of the impending circumstances, he sees no immediate danger as of now. He said that the weather forecast for rain would be of great benefit.

Firemen were still at the scene this morning and by 9 a.m. they reported the flames were under control but couldn't promise they would stay under control unless weather conditions changed. An off-duty shift is standing by at the fire station while the Monday shift stands by at the scene to keep the fire from spreading.

HHH Urges Rationing If Needed

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said Sunday that the United States should do everything that is necessary, including ration gasoline, to gain independence from the Arab nations' oil supplies.

"How long must we continue to subject ourselves to Arab economic warfare without taking steps to mobilize our economy and to halt the chaos of the energy crisis in urban and suburban America?" Humphrey said during a speech at a Jewish National Fund dinner.

"We must take steps now to meet the energy crisis head on. Hopefully, gas rationing can be avoided. But we must have a stand-by rationing system ready to go into effect at a moment's notice," the senator said.

Humphrey said the U.S. and its allies will be more vulnerable to Arab pressure if we are not prepared to take whatever emergency measures are necessary, including rationing.

Humphrey said oil companies should be forced to roll back their prices to halt their windfall profits.

At a press conference Humphrey said that President Nixon has lost his ability to govern and that pressure and support for impeachment of the president are mounting daily.

Demand For Steel Reported Strong

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Steel demand is so strong that steel companies' order books for a given month are filled within a week after they are opened, Industry Week magazine said Monday.

"The order influx indicates that demand is continuing to exceed the capacity of U.S. mills, as it did last year when shipments reached a record 111.4 million net tons," it added.

The magazine said the mill shipments won't go that high this year because the mills don't have large inventories to ship from as they did last year.

The gas you save, saves you money.

Rhodes, Gilligan Exchange Barbs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan and former Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes warmed up attacks over the weekend for their potential clash for the Statehouse.

Ohio Utilities Seek Sulfur Extension

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio utility companies today asked the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency for an extension of the state's sulfur oxide emission control deadline.

The companies, which include Ohio's major utilities, said they can't install the necessary equipment by the July 1, 1975 deadline.

The Ohio EPA says 14 utilities in the state's heavily polluted regions failed to submit an acceptable compliance plan by August, 1972.

Compliance schedules were written for those companies by the EPA last March, and a public hearing was held on the proposals in April.

The EPA issued variances a month later, and the companies requested hearings.

Utilities seeking an extension include the Ohio Power Co., Ohio Edison Co., Cleveland Electric Illuminating, Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., Cincinnati Gas and Electric Co., Toledo Edison Co., and the Dayton Power and Light Co.

in the November general election, appeared at a seminar sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, a professional journalistic society. However, they never met face-to-face.

Rhodes led off the attack by saying Gilligan will spend $4 million more than he said he would to get re-elected. Rhodes, a former two-term chief executive, said most of the money will be spent on state employees working on state time.

Gilligan responded by saying he will stick with a $500,000 limit on the primary and $1 million on the general election. He added, "Although I don't expect we will spend nearly that much."

Rhodes, who has operated his own industrial development firm since leaving office in 1971, said, "I would not hesitate to take legal action to demand equal radio and television time."

"Anyone can file the lawsuit, but I don't know what the grounds would be," the governor said.

Rhodes also accused Gilligan of having his own "plumbers" in the Statehouse to operate on the same basis as those uncovered in the Watergate investigations.

"The governor has a crew of spies employed at public expense," Rhodes said.

Gilligan responded, "It is not surprising that the Republican party would attempt in this year of Watergate to say the Democrats are doing the same things they are."

He added, "Mr. Rhodes said he places a high value on truth. I'm sure he does because he uses it so sparingly."

Perk Reported Hospitalized With Pneumonia

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Clinic Hospital reported Sunday that Mayor Ralph J. Perk is in satisfactory condition.

The mayor was admitted to the hospital Saturday following a relapse of viral pneumonia.

Perk flew back from Florida to be hospitalized after complaining every bone in his body ached.

Perk was reported to have a 103-degree temperature Friday while recuperating in Florida from his earlier bout with the illness when he was also hospitalized.

He was released from the hospital Feb. 23 after a seven-day stay.

Broccoli souffle, baked yams, skillet mushrooms, rolls, fruit and beverage.

Broccoli Souffle

10-ounce package frozen chopped broccoli

3 tablespoons butter or margarine

3 tablespoons flour

1/4 teaspoon salt

1/8 teaspoon white pepper

1 cup milk

1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

3 large eggs separated

1 tablespoon lemon juice

Add broccoli to 1 cup boiling water; place over moderate heat and with a fork separate pieces. Bring to a full boil and boil 1 minute; remove from heat; with a slotted spoon remove enough of the broccoli to make 1 scant cup and turn into a strainer to drain further. (Cook the remaining broccoli until tender and refrigerate for some other use.) In a 2 1/2-quart saucepan over low heat melt the butter; stir in flour, salt and pepper; off heat, gradually stir in the milk, keeping smooth. Cook over moderately low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and bubbly. Remove from heat. Stir in the cheese. Without cooling further, whisk in the egg yolks one at a time. Stir in the 1 scant cup parboiled drained broccoli and the lemon juice. Beat the egg whites until stiff; add a large spoonful to the broccoli mixture and stir to blend; add remaining egg whites and fold in at least

1 1/2 inches over top of dish — 30 servings.

GOOD DINNER

Baked chicken with rice, curried celery and apples, salad bowl, butter crescents, coconut cake, beverage.

Curried Celery and Apples

This vegetable and fruit, both in good supply now, team beautifully.

1/4 cup butter or margarine

5 cups sliced celery

1/2 cup chopped onion

1 1/2 teaspoons curry powder

2 cups pared diced apple

1 to 1 1/4 teaspoons salt

1-3rd cup toasted blanched slivered almonds, if desired

In a large skillet melt butter; add celery, onion and curry powder; cook over moderate heat, stirring often, until tender-crisp but not brown — about 10 minutes. Add apple and salt; continue cooking until apple is tender but holds its shape — about 5 minutes. If used, sprinkle with almonds. Makes 6 servings.

matron; Betty Pittenger, vice president of District 23; Virginia Toole, worthy matron of Kingston; Marilyn Bush, worthy matron of Purity Chapter.

Past matrons: Marie Bennett, Margaret Shane, Elaine Bowman, Mary Radcliffe, Pauline Hundley, Beverly Currence, Leona Reigel, Chestora Peters, Pauline Cook, Kathryn Thomerson and past patrons, Carl Bennett and Kenneth Reigel were greeted.

Sharon Beadle, associate matron presided over the business meeting. She reported that a substantial profit had been realized from the candy sale. The chapter voted to make its usual contribution to the Hospital Circle and members are to notify the worthy matron when someone is confined in a Columbus hospital.

Heber Chapter of Williamsport extended an invitation for members to attend its meeting on March 14 to hear Wanda Hooks tell of her travels and experiences as grand representative from Washington.

An invitation was read from Westwood Chapter in Cincinnati to attend its Grand Inspection on March 30. This is the home chapter of Jean Woodruff, grand conductress.

The altar was draped in memory of Oscar Maeder, past grand patron. It was reported that Thelma Noecker and Clarence Radcliffe were ill and Mary Helen McDonald and Elizabeth Dunkel have been in Columbus hospitals for surgery.

There will be initiatory work at the next meeting on March 12 and a rehearsal has been scheduled for 7 p.m., March 10. All officers are urged to be present.

The annual inspection of Circleville Chapter will be May 28.

A social hour followed the meeting with Doris Bell and Opal Vance in charge of the refreshment committee.

Garden Club Meets In Sprouse Home

The home of Dr. W. Lloyd Sprouse, 361 E. Main St., was the setting for the Friday evening meeting of Circleville Garden Club.

Led by Harford Renick, a discussion was held on the various methods of propagating violets. Mr. Renick was given a large pot of mums for winning a seed identification contest.

Mrs. Earl Smith presided at the serving table which was centered with an appealing arrangement of mums. Dr. Sprouse was assisted in his duties as host by members of his family.

Circleville BPW Club Addressed By Joe Bell

Legislation was the program theme for the Thursday evening meeting of Circleville Business and Professional Women's Club at Pickaway Arms.

Joe Bell, president of Circleville City Council, was guest speaker. He explained the makeup of the council and elaborated on policies and procedures. Mr. Bell said it was important for residents to know about and to appreciate regulating rules of order.

After welcome greetings and introduction of guests, Margaret Bowers and Maxine Hughes, Freda Collins, conducted the business session.

Communications were read from Margaret Remy expressing appreciation for her endorsement by members as a candidate for Pickaway County Auditor, Chillicothe Club extending an invitation to its annual Spring Breakfast on April 28 at Holiday Inn and Delores Chambers, director of District 10, explaining responsibilities for the annual conference of the Ohio Federation to be held March 16-17 in Columbus.

Etha Mae Wolford, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the slate of officers to be considered for election at the March meeting.

Others present were: Mary Howard, Clarissa Talbut, Virginia Baker, Louise Hill, Elizabeth Altmeyer, Nancy Lu Conrad, Harriet Kaylor, Marge Bergen, Leora Sayre and Marie Wilkin.

New Democratic Party Rules Lead To Open Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic National Committee has approved new delegate selection rules that could lead to a wide-open presidential nominating convention in 1976.

The new rules, the result of a year's work by a party commission that compromised on most major issues, were approved Friday by an overwhelming voice vote of the national committee in the form recommended by the party's Executive Committee a day earlier.

They retain large portions of the 1972 rules that reformed party procedures but make several important changes, the most important being a proportional representation system throughout the delegate selection process.

This means that 1976 delegates will be awarded according to the relative strength of the different candidates, a change over the system under which a candidate often got virtually all of a state's delegates by finishing a few votes ahead of his nearest rival.

Every candidate with at least 15 per cent of the vote could receive delegates in 1976.

Most party observers think the new system would benefit Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, who demonstrated in 1972 he could get some support in all parts of the country.

However, it would force most candidates to expand their efforts into more states since they could no longer count on winning a large chunk of delegates in just one primary, such as

Inventor's Fuel Test Hits Snag

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Part-time inventor Josiah Morgan's first major test of his secret, economical fuel ended Saturday with his mileage-worn automobile chugging to a premature stop. But not because of any fuel problems.

"A timing chain broke," said Morgan. "It cost me a $45 bill to get towed back to Middletown." The breakdown occurred about 30 miles into the experiment, near Wilmington. He said he'll try again soon.

The 37-year-old industrial worker calls his exotic mixtures "soul brew," "poverty punch," and "formerly white lightning."

Witnesses said the fuels smell "like perfume and looked like soda pop."

Morgan said, "I think I proved my point here, but I was disappointed about the trip."

He said the different fuels are made from farm products, including ingredients found in banana-growing countries.

He claims a 400-mile journey would cost only $2 in fuel. Only a fuel pack hookup is needed in the fuel system.

Metzenbaum May Fight Marathon Oil

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, said Friday he may extend his battle against soaring fuel prices to include the Marathon Oil Co.

Metzenbaum threw down the gauntlet only a few hours after Marathon announced it was raising gas prices to some dealers by 8.4 cents per gallon.

Standing on the lawn in front of his new southside headquarters, Metzenbaum said he had only just heard of Marathon's price increase, and that it was "entirely possible" he would ask for a federal audit of the company.

However, he added he hoped the firm would choose to release its financial status publicly, and without force.

It would be the second major oil company to fall into Metzenbaum's sights since he took aim against the energy crisis two months ago.

Metzenbaum already has asked the Federal Energy Office to audit accounts of the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio. He said initial findings of the report should be ready Monday or Tuesday.

Since his appointment Jan. 3 to fill the unexpired term of now U.S. Atty. Gen. William Saxbe, Metzenbaum has made gasoline price hikes, oil company profits and the energy crisis his main campaign theme.

Israel, Syria To Negotiate

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Israel and Syria have agreed to send military and diplomatic representatives to Washington within about two weeks to negotiate a first phase of disengagement in the Golan Heights, U.S. officials traveling with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today.

The two sides will send their representatives separately and work through Kissinger in what was described as an "inverted shuttle." The Israelis are to arrive first, about March 16.

This probably will cause Kissinger to put off a trip to the Soviet Union, where he intended to speed negotiations on a new nuclear arms-limitation treaty. He also may delay a fifth tour of the Middle East.

A senior American official disclosed the setup as Kissinger came here to see King Faisal about lifting the oil embargo imposed against the United States and the Netherlands for their support of and friendship with Israel during the October war.

Kissinger sealed the Syrian-Israeli negotiations process during a four-hour meeting with Syrian President Hafez Assad in Damascus Friday night.

At one point in their talk, senior officials said, the chances were about 50-50 that Kissinger's efforts would fail and he would have to go home to Washington with nothing to show for the trip except delivery of a list of Israeli war prisoners that he had in his pocket anyway when he set out to the Middle East last Monday.

The senior official said the Israelis and Syrians are still very apart in their negotiating position. Other sources said, however, that Israel is willing to give up almost all the territory it gained after being attacked Oct. 6, provided a United Nations buffer zone is established and the Syrians thin out their armor and troops in the Golan Heights.

Rail Plans Could Close Elevators

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The director of the state Agriculture Department says a proposed rail reorganization could close down 600 Ohio grain elevators.

Gene R. Abercrombie said the proposal could force many grain farmers out of business.

"Many of these elevators are the major grain collection points for the entire farming area," he said. "They rely on the railroad to ship grain to the processors."

"If the railroads are no longer in service, many industries would be forced to quit," he said. "Farmers and elevators would have to transport their grain many miles at additional expense to find a market."

The proposed reorganization would mean abandoning about 2,500 miles of track in Ohio. The plan was proposed by the U.S. Railway Association.

The Interstate Commerce Commission began hearings on the plan today in Columbus.

Early witnesses are expected to include Gov. John J. Gilligan and U.S. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio.

The U.S. Transportation Department says abandoning 32 per cent of Ohio's rail system will reduce rail traffic by only four per cent.

"However, trade organizations and industries associated with Ohio agriculture and rural areas strongly believe the economic impact of the affected areas will be far greater than the four per cent indicated," Abercrombie said.

During his meeting with Assad, officials said, Kissinger brought with him Israel's first proposal on a disengagement of forces after 6½ hours of talks with Israeli Premier Golda Meir in Tel Aviv.

A Syrian spokesman said "the thoughts" Kissinger brought with him were not accepted by Assad, who presented his own views.

After meeting with Faisal, Kissinger flies to Amman to meet with King Hussein of Jordan, and on Sunday he is to leave the Middle East for Bonn, West Germany.

Ford Lima Plant Shifts Emphasis To Small Engines

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. says because of "soaring" demand for small cars the company is adding a second shift to turn out six-cylinder engines at the Lima Engine Plant.

Donald Bastian, vice president-manufacturing group, said Friday second shift operations will start Monday on the plant's 200 and 250-cubic-inch, six-cylinder line.

He said about 340 workers are being transferred from the V-8 line. The increase "totally offsets a planned reduction in production schedules for the...V-8 engines," he added.

"We thus will be able to sustain our over all work force of 4,300," he added.

TV Vikings Top Dublin In Sectional

With four starters hitting in double figures, Teays Valley rolled to a 79-69 win over Dublin in the AA Sectional finals Saturday night at Grove City.

The victory sends the Vikings into District action against Heath 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Fairgrounds Coliseum at Columbus. Heath upset Licking Valley in the AA Sectional finals at Newark Saturday night to gain a berth in the District competition.

Craig Pontius led the Vikings with eight from the floor and seven from the charity stripe for a total of 23 points. Terry Collins burned the nets for 19, Jay Brinker hit for 16, Jim Logsdon added 11 while Jeff Anderson and Lee Stiles each tallied five.

Dublin's Ron Termeer led all scorers with seven from the field and 12 from the foul line for a total of 26 markers. Dave Shaver and Bob Townsend each netted 16, Rob Termeer and Dave Stevens each tallied four, Terry Hyder hit for two and Jeff Gafford had one.

It was a good shooting night for both clubs as Teays Valley hit on 28 of 58 from the field for 48 per cent and Dublin connected on 22 of 44 from the floor for 50 per cent.

It was a busy night for the officials as they whistled the teams to the foul line for a total of 68 charity tosses.

Teays Valley converted 23 of 30 from the foul line for 77 per cent and Dublin connected on 25 of 38 free throws for 66 per cent.

The Vikings lost Stiles and Collins via the foul route and Rob Termeer and Townsend fouled out for Dublin, all in the final period.

Rebounding honors went to Teays Valley 27 to 21 with Logsdon doing the big job for the Vikings and Ron Termeer topping Dublin.

The Vikings committed 23 turnovers in the contest and Dublin misplayed the ball 21 times.

It was Teays Valley out in front most of the way and the closest Dublin could come to the lead in the second half was four points.

Both teams set a torrid scoring pace in the final quarter with Teays Valley hooping 30 points in the period and Dublin hitting for 28.

It was Pontious jumping, pumping and dumping the ball from all angles and Collins ripping the nets from the corners to pace the Viking attack.

But, big Ron Termeer countered for the Shamrocks with some fine work inside to keep them in the game.

It was a tight first period that saw the Vikings holding a narrow 16-14 edge at the buzzer. At one point in the period, the Vikings went into a stall game in an effort to draw the Shamrocks out of their tight zone defense.

Dublin took an early lead, 18-16, in the second frame but the Vikings battled back and grabbed a 33-28 advantage at halftime.

The second half belonged to the Vikings as they controlled play and led all the way. Dublin pulled within four points late in the third canto but Brinker hit a basket and a pair of free throws to give the Vikings a 49-41 lead at the buzzer.

Both teams peppered the nets in the final frame but the closest the Shamrocks could come to the lead was five points in the canto and the Vikings wrapped it up 79-69 at the final buzzer.

Coach Bob Hoover and his Vikings move into District action Tuesday for the second consecutive year. They now hold an 18-2 mark for the season.

SPOILS OF WAR—Teays Valley's cagers hoist Craig Pontius as he cuts the nets after the Vikings stopped Dublin to win the AA Sectional championship Saturday night at Grove City. The Vikings move into District play 8:30 p.m. Tuesday against Heath in the Fairgrounds Coliseum in Columbus.

Cincy Rips Marquette

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Nationally-ranked Marquette and Indiana waltzed into the Buckeye State Saturday, but departed dazed after Cincinnati and Ohio State played their own tunes.

Cincinnati trounced eighth-ranked Marquette 92-77 as Bearcat Lloyd Batts finished the regular season with a career high 33 points.

Ohio State's Larry Bolden sank three of four free throws with less than a minute left to preserve the Buckeyes' 85-79 upset of Big Ten conference leader Indiana, ranked No. 9.

Meanwhile, Ohio University squeaked out a 71-70 triumph over Bowling Green to claim the Mid-American Conference title. The Bobcats will travel to Terre Haute, Ind. Saturday to play Marquette in a NCAA regional tournament.

Cincinnati's Batts provided the spark as the Bearcats over took Marquette in the second half.

Cincinnati, down 43-36 at the half, roared back in the second period to score 12 unanswered points. The Bearcats at one time held a 25-point margin over the Warriors.

The upset kept Cincinnati's hopes alive for a bid to the National Invitation Tournament in New York City. Cincinnati finished with a 19-7 mark.

"I think we proved today we're one of the best teams in the country," said Bearcat coach Gale Catlett. "We have wins over Louisville, Marquette, Houston and Oregon State. That should be good enough to get us something."

Ohio State Coach Fred Taylor used a one-guard, three-forward and a center offense to pull the upset on Indiana.

Taylor said, "The kids really played hard. They helped each other out and worked like the dickens."

Senior captain Wardell Jackson, who had been benched for several games, provided the punch with 25 points as the Buckeyes moved to 3-13 in the Big Ten.

Meanwhile in other games, Toledo nudged Kent State 70-64, Miami got past Xavier 67-58, Dayton drubbed Northern Michigan 73-59, Gannon edged Youngstown 74-70, Wright State trounced Cedarville 102-75, St. Vincent, Pa., nipped Walsh 63-57, Hiram dumped Washington & Jefferson 101-63, Ashland tripped Tri-State 81-75 and Akron turned back Bellarmine, 73-66, mine, 73-66.

NCAA Field Growing Crowded

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

The NCAA's postseason basketball party is getting crowded. More guests are arriving by the day and it should be a bouncy affair.

Louisville, Vanderbilt and Texas are among nine new faces in the NCAA playoffs. They made the prestigious guest list after clinching conference titles Saturday.

Louisville defeated Bradley 87-84 to win the Missouri Valley Conference championship; Vanderbilt clinched the Southeastern Conference title with a 71-69 victory over Kentucky and Texas was the winner in the Southwest Conference after beating Baylor 95-84.

In addition, New Mexico won the Western Athletic Conference championship by beating Texas-El Paso 67-55; Furman won the Southern Conference by stopping Richmond 62-60; St. Joseph's, Pa., trimmed LaSalle 76-71 to win the Middle Atlantic Conference University Division championship; San Francisco won the West Coast Athletic Conference by beating St. Mary's 80-70 and Ohio University took the Mid-American Conference with a 71-70 trimming of Bowling Green.

Long Beach State finished first in the Pacific Coast Athletic Conference race with a 76-52 victory over the University of the Pacific, but can't play in the NCAA playoffs because of recruiting violations. Los Angeles State, the No. 2 team in the PACAC, will be the representative. The runnerups beat UC Santa Barbara 93-87 Saturday night.

The new additions bring the NCAA field to 19, leaving five more openings for certain other conference champions. Penn became the first major conference champion in the land, winning the Ivy League crown for the fifth straight year Friday night. The NCAA last week invited nine independents to its 25-team affair.

Louisville, the nation's 20th-ranked team, went down to the bitter end — and then some — for the MVC-clincher. Ulysses Bridgeman made a three-point play in the closing seconds of overtime to win it.

Dave Klobucher and Jim Caruthers made jump shots in the final 58 seconds to tie the score at 76 at the end of regulation. Bradley took an early lead in overtime but the Braves buckled under Bridgeman's shooting.

After Louisville tied the game at 84, with Bridgeman contributing a key field goal in the rally, he scored on a layup and made a free throw for the final margin.

Vanderbilt's SEC title was made possible by a combination of the Commodores' victory and a loss by Alabama. The Crimson Tide, the nation's No. 7 team, was upset by Florida 64-61.

Actually, the Commodores clinched a tie for the conference championship but will go to the NCAA playoffs because they've beaten Alabama twice this season.

Vanderbilt, No. 6 in the country, had some problems before beating the underdog Wildcats. Jess Fosnes pulled it out with two free throws at the 41-second mark. Fosnes wound up with 24 points.

Indiana Wins Title

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Illinois and host Michigan State grabbed most of the individual titles and glamour in the Big Ten Indoor Track and Field Championships.

Indiana, however, won its second consecutive team title in the 64th annual meet despite just one first-place finish.

TV Tickets On Sale

A thousand tickets for the AA District basketball game between Teays Valley and Heath will be on sale today and Tuesday at Teays Valley High School. The game will be played 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Fairgrounds Coliseum at Columbus.

Ohio University Edges BGSU, 71-70

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University Coach Jim Snyder asked his five players to do three things in the final 11 seconds against Bowling Green in the last game of the Mid-American Conference basketball season.

The Bobcats did and it meant a narrow 71-70 triumph over Bowling Green and the conference championship. It also means a ticket to an NCAA regional tournament at Terre Haute, Ind., Saturday to play eighth-ranked Marquette, who lost to Cincinnati last Saturday 92-77.

"We wanted to force them to use as much time as possible, pressure their guards and not give them a second shot at the basket," Snyder said. "We did all of these things."

Ohio guard Larry Slappy sank one of

Irish Set For Contest

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps has his wish, and it's not hard to tell he's getting his second-ranked Irish ready for their coveted NCAA basketball tournament appearance.

The Irish received their bid as an at-large team to the NCAA midwest regional last Thursday, ending a campaign for a national championship tourney spot that began after the Irish finished second in last year's National Invitation Tournament.

Saturday, Notre Dame played well enough to chalk up its 12th straight victory and 24th in 25 games this season as it belted Villanova 115-85.

But tonight, Phelps' crew takes on Dayton's Flyers on the Ohio team's floor and it wasn't hard to see where Phelps' mind was.

After the Villanova game, he said, "The game at Dayton will be tough, involving two tournament teams. We'll be playing on a tartan floor there, which should help us since it's the same type of floor as at Indiana State."

The Irish will open their tournament play at Indiana State in Terre Haute, Ind., next Saturday afternoon. They'll play the winner of the Ohio Valley Conference.

two free throws with 22 seconds left to give the Bobcats the winning margin. A couple of jump balls ran the clock down to 11 seconds when Bowling Green got their hands on the ball.

The Falcons gave the ball to Brian Scanlan who fired away from 15 feet and missed as the buzzer sounded.

Snyder gave credit to forward George Brown. "Brown did a great job of getting his hand in Scanlan's face and forcing him to hurry the shot."

But Snyder said the key to the win was the play of 6-foot-4 sophomore guard Walter Luckett, who had 26 points, 18 of them in the first half.

"Luckett just made up his mind he was going to score tonight and went out and did it," the Bobcat coach said.

Bowling Green Coach Pat Haley agreed. "I thought Luckett was the complete difference in the ball game," he said. "Every time Ohio needed a big play they went to him."

Ohio U. finished with a 9-3 record, a full game ahead of second-place Toledo at 8-4.

Toledo, led by Jim Kindel's 18 points, knocked off Kent State 70-64. Kent State, which finished at the bottom with a 1-11 mark, was paced by Dennis Odle with 21.

In the only other conference game, Central Michigan edged Western Michigan 78-77.

The only other conference team in action, Miami, dropped Xavier 67-58 in a nonleague game.

Aspromonte Pleased With Tribe

TUSCON, Ariz. (AP)—Cleveland Indian Manager Ken Aspromonte said the only thing he's worried about after a week of spring training is avoiding injuries.

"I hate to keep telling you guys the same thing," said the Cleveland manager. "But I'm very pleased with the way things are going."

"I'm especially happy with the pitchers. They're all well ahead of schedule. They know there's plenty of competition for jobs and some of the infielders are throwing the hell out of the ball-guys like Buddy Bell, Frank Duffy and Jack Brohamer."

Aspromonte said. Brohamer was hit on the knee with a fastball during batting practice Sunday. Ken Sanders was on the mound at the time. Trainer Jim Warfield diagnosed the injury as only a bruise.

Catcher Ken Suarez is the only player still not in camp. Suarez will be attending a grievance hearing in Sarasota, Fla., Wednesday.

Suarez claims he was traded by the Texas Rangers to the Indians for "disciplinary reasons."

The Indians will play the first of three consecutive intersquad games beginning Wednesday with Gaylord Perry and Dick Tidrow receiving the initial pitching assignments.

Perry also will start the Tribes first Cactus League exhibition game against the San Francisco Giants here next Saturday.

Cleveland Indians Sale Possibility

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians are searching for ways to strengthen their financial position and one of them might be the sale of the American League franchise, The Cleveland Plain Dealer reported Sunday.

Alva T. Bonda, executive vice president of the Indians, said there are no plans to move the club out of the city and that the Indians are not actively trying to sell the club.

However, he added, that if Edward J. DeBartolo, the owner of several race tracks, shopping centers and motels, were interested in buying the club Bonda would recommend the sale to the present owners.

Bonda made his remarks in an hour long interview with the paper.

"I want to stress one thing now though: the sale of the Indians is strictly newspaper talk. As far as I'm concerned right now, the Indians are not for sale."

DeBartolo's business operations are based in Youngstown and his properties include Thistledown racetrack, located in a Cleveland suburb.

Bonda said he knows that if DeBartolo bought the club it would not be moved from Cleveland.

"It would only be a recommendation because there are 41 partners," Bonda said. "It's a bad way to run a business."

Anderson Sees Big Challenge By Houston

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Cincinnati Reds Manager George "Sparky" Anderson tabbed the Houston Astros Sunday as the team most likely to challenge the Reds in the National League Western Division.

Anderson said he plans to call the teams together this week and "remind them that Houston means business this season."

He pointed to changes which saw Preston Gomez installed as head coach and the acquisition of pitcher Claude Osteen from the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"And new pitching coach Roger Craig can help them. They have good arms," said Anderson, referring to Dave Roberts, Don Wilson, Larry Dierker and J.R. Richard.

Houston finished fourth in the West, 17 games off the pace.

He said the Reds "will have to be patient and wait for something along the way to help us."

Captain Pete Rose, the league's Most Valuable Player last season, said he expects a race similar to the National League Eastern Division when the New York Mets went down to the wire before winning.

"The teams are so evenly balanced," said Rose. "And San Diego is improved."

The Reds await the arrival today of second baseman Joe Morgan. He had permission to report late due to completion of a winter term at California State.

Golden Age Of Sports Arrives With Dollar

EDITOR'S NOTE: In this first of a five-part series, an Associated Press Sports Writer delves into the financial side of professional sports. It has become one of the nation's biggest industries, but how did it get that way, and what are the stakes?

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

The golden age of sports has arrived, if gold means dollars spent and dollars earned in professional arenas across America.

Leagues fight with bundles of money for players and franchises, teams fight for stadiums or whole cities, and players fight for as much of the total take as they can get.

It's a far cry from that day in 1846 when two baseball teams bet a dinner on the outcome of the first game played under Doubleday's rules. Pro sports today amount to a massive poker game, egged on by affluent fans and television, managed by lawyers, assessed in courts.

The 105 professional team owners in baseball, football, basketball and hockey are alternately crying at contract time and smiling as the turnstiles click and the TV cameras whirr. The fates of the players reflect this battle. A few may lose salary arbitrations, but it's a good bet most of them come out ahead.

When Gordie Howe signed his first professional hockey contract in 1946, he received $2,500 and a Detroit Red Wings jacket as an 18-year-old. Last summer, the 45-year-old Howe came out of retirement to accept a $1 million offer from the World Hockey Association Houston Aeros. He probably didn't need the money.

Howe, like many athletes in this golden age, is a well established businessman. He breeds 230 head of cattle on a 40,000-acre farm, is involved in life insurance and real estate and endorses a number of products. His sons, Mark and Marty — barely older than their father was when he signed his first contract — received nearly $1 million each for signing with the Aeros.

Alan Eagleson, executive director, manager and executive counsel of the National Hockey League Players Association, reports that in 1972, more than 60 million North American sports fans spent more than $300 million for tickets to watch major league sports. He said television and radio added $100 million for the rights to cover professional teams. Fans spent an estimated $150 million on concessions. Salaries reflect the infusion of millions, thanks to the increased competition for player talent brought about by new leagues like the American Basketball Association, World Hockey Association, and World Football League.

In basketball, salaries ballooned from an average of $12,000 a few years ago to $85,000 today; hockey players, competing for an average of $30,000 before the WHA, earn $55,000 today. Football salaries had dropped from $40,000 to $30,000 when the American and National Football Leagues merged, but some predict that payrolls will double because of the World

Football League.

Owners aren't smiling anymore when it comes time to pay the bills. It isn't easy keeping up with the players in business, and there's the added worry about paying the rent on arenas and offices, buying equipment, paying for transportation, printing programs, and facing the threat of losing players to a competing league — regardless of the status of their contracts.

Then there's another problem: what happens if fans aren't showing up in vast numbers?

"Our biggest problem right now is to fill seats that are now unfilled in many of our arenas," says National Basketball Association Commissioner Walter Kennedy. "Player salaries and the costs of operation for a club have escalated tremendously in the last 10 years; and while there has been a substantial increase in attendance and — in some instances — ticket prices, unless those seats are filled in the next three to five years, some of our clubs are going to be in real financial difficulty."

Financial difficulty, the spectre that leans over the shoulder of every team owner, is a startling prospect — considering the fact that much of a club's operating expense is tax deductible. "But somebody's got to pay the bills," says one former team executive, "and if the fans don't show, where's the money going to come from?"

At times, usually contract signing times, owners plead poverty to player demands for six-figure contracts. In many cases, however, the financial bite isn't as severe as it seems.

The National Hockey League Philadelphia Flyers are an example. They entered the NHL in 1967 after paying an entry fee of $2 million. They received a dividend of close to $1 million in 1970 when Buffalo and Vancouver paid $6 million each to join the league, and received almost the same amount in 1972 when the New York Islanders and Atlanta Flames became NHL franchises. The Flyers are in line for another big payment when league accepts Washington, D.C., and Kansas City next season, bringing back the amount the Flyers had to pay in 1967 with plenty of extra capital as well. They have more than made back their original investment.

OSU Defeat Of Indiana Shakes Up Big 10 Standings

By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer

With Ohio State extending a helping hand to Michigan and Purdue, the Big Ten basketball race, seemingly wrapped up by defending champion Indiana, will go down to the wire next Saturday.

Ohio State upset Indiana 85-79 Saturday to drop the Hoosiers into a first place tie with Michigan, which rolled past Minnesota 79-56. And Purdue kept alive its hopes with a 94-83 decision over Illinois.

Michigan State, which will have its say-so next Saturday, was bumped by Wisconsin 87-80, and Iowa belted Northwestern 85-76.

After a meaningless game Monday night which finds Wisconsin at Iowa, the race could be settled Saturday with Purdue at Indiana and Michigan at Michigan State.

Indiana and Michigan go into the final round with 11-2 records, and Purdue is a length away with a 10-3 mark.

A three-way tie for the title is possible if Purdue defeats Indiana and Michigan State upsets Michigan. In that case, Michigan and Purdue would play for the right to represent the conference in the NCAA championships. Indiana would have to step aside since the Hoosiers made the trip last season.

However, if Indiana and Michigan both win, then those two schools would meet in a playoff to determine the NCAA berth reserved for the Big Ten.

If a playoff is needed, it will be played in Illinois' Assembly Hall March 11.

While Purdue-Indiana and Michigan-Michigan State battle to decide the outcome, the regular season will close Saturday with Ohio State at Illinois, Wisconsin at Northwestern and Iowa at Minnesota.

Indiana's hopes of winning and avoiding a playoff hinge on a victory over Purdue if Michigan State can defeat Michigan. Michigan could wrap it up with a victory over Michigan State if Purdue defeats Indiana.

Indiana Coach Bobby Knight, incensed over the officiating at Columbus, said, "It was the most gutless example of officiating I have ever seen. If Fred Taylor can charge out onto the floor twice during the game and not be charged with a technical, how could I sit there as a visiting coach and expect to get a fair shake?"

Nichols Named Top Cage Coach

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Bobby Nichols, 43-year-old coach at the University of Toledo, has been named Ohio College Basketball Coach of the Year for piloting the unheralded Rockets to an 18-8 record.

Nichols, who was co-captain of the Rockets in 1952-53, was selected in a poll conducted by The Columbus Dispatch.

Burson Leads Sertoma Cage Tilt

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Muskingum College Coach Jim Burson will lead Ohio's squad in the fourth-annual Ohio-Indiana Sertoma Charities basketball game in April.

Burson, who led the Muskies to a 19-4 season in 1973, replaces Ohio State Coach Fred Taylor who had a previous commitment.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FORTUESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)—Some projects must be backed more carefully, some methods changed. But nothing must be done on the spur of the moment nor without consideration of future values.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21)—Especially favored now: occupational pursuits, community interests and personal relationships generally. Avoid daydreaming, indifference to day's needs.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—You may face some petty annoyances. Shake them off with a philosophical attitude and settle down to serious work. Much can be accomplished now.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Study carefully and investigate properly if you become involved in intricate matters. Search out new opportunities but reject dubious propositions.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)—You may encounter some "clouds" in the form of delays, impasses. All could lead to eventual good. Take benefits and bumps with equal aplomb.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)—Don't get ahead of yourself. There is a tendency now to rush matters to hasty completion, to plan too far ahead without full preparation or understanding of all factors.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)—This looks like one of your better days. You should be the center of attraction in whatever circle you find yourself—business or pleasure.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)—It will pay you to look below the surface now. New trends may result in an agreement where there was only opposition before.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)—Jupiter influences not too friendly. Avoid getting in over your head—especially where you happen to be on unfamiliar ground.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—A favorable day for negotiations, working toward contract settlements. Parties of the second part now appreciate what you have to offer.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Mixed influences. Stay out of speculative ventures and be exceptionally careful in dealings with the opposite sex.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)—The Piscean tendency to seek the unusual and offbeat will be much in evidence now. You'll find much pleasure in areas others overlook.

YOU BORN TODAY are compassionate; ardent, too. You truly love your neighbor in the Biblical sense; are outraged by wrongdoing, especially to the less fortunate; can be roused to extreme action in these cases. Many lawyers, judges, statesmen, musicians, chemists and researchers were born in Pisces. Also, maritime men and entertainers. Traits to curb: tendencies toward overindulgence, undue worry. Birthdate of: Rex Harrison, Eng. actor.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — character move as much Things are so hurried Down from my own impulses as at "Apple's Way" it's the kind of situation that makes busybody George Apple want to pitch right in.

Lorimar Productions' Lee Rich and Earl Hamner got the go-ahead from CBS for the series last Nov. 1. Their instructions were to come up with a show with the quality of "Our Town," something with a typically American flavor and done the way Frank Capra used to make movies.

"We've been working 11 weeks, and 15 weeks ago we didn't have a single script," said Ronny Cox, who stars as George Apple. "Most writers don't know how to write for us. They either think we're 'The Waltons' or 'Father Knows Best.'"

The show, which replaced "The New Perry Mason" at midseason, has been on the air exactly four weeks. Although created by Hamner, it hasn't measured up to "The Waltons" yet. It lapses into schmaltz, and the character of Apple seems too good to be believed.

"We worry about that a lot," said Cox. "That's why I'm glad we made him clumsy. He's flawed. Earl calls him 'a slightly berserk good Samaritan.' He can't help getting into other people's problems, even when he's not wanted."

Cox said that, in the shows being filmed now, lines have been written in to show that his meddling is an embarrassment to his family. "I'm trying to make that

Cox, 35, a native of Cloudcroft, N.M., is a relative newcomer to television. His only appearances prior to the series include an episode of "Bonanza," "The Pueblo Incident," "The Connection," a pilot called "Hernandez" and "A Case of Rape."

He spent most of his time on the stage — where, until he appeared in the movie "Deliverance," he never made more than $8,000 a year.

Sirica Ponders Action On Sealed Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge is studying a sealed grand jury report on the Watergate cover-up and preparing to decide whether to give it to the House impeachment inquiry and also to make it public.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica could decide today what action to take on the 50-page report said to detail the grand jury's findings on possible presidential involvement in the cover-up.

Meanwhile, two other Watergate grand juries were moving toward completion of their investigations.

Sources said indictments in the White House plumbers case could be returned as early as midweek.

Egil Krogh Jr., former director of the special investigations unit dubbed the plumbers, already has pleaded guilty to conspiring to violate the civil rights of Dr. Lewis Fielding, the Beverly Hills psychiatrist whose office was burglarized in 1971 in an effort to obtain information about Daniel Ellsberg. Krogh is serving a six-month prison sentence and is cooperating with the prosecutors.

Former presidential aide John D. Ehrlichman, who was Krogh's boss, rejected an offer to plead guilty to the same charge and cooperate.

Ehrlichman was one of seven men indicted on Friday on charges stemming from their alleged role in the cover-up.

In Los Angeles, five friends of Ehrlichman have begun soliciting funds in an effort to raise a $150,000 legal defense fund. The five sent letters three weeks ago to 50 other Ehrlichman friends, asking for contributions of $3,000 each.

In addition to the plumbers investigation, grand juries are probing the ITT antitrust settlement; campaign contributions, including the so-called milk fund; political dirty tricks and the handling of the subpoenaed White House tapes, particularly the 18.5-minute gap in one of them.

Special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski originally had hoped to see most of those investigations completed by the end of February.

But the investigations fell behind, in part because the President ordered White House lawyers to halt their cooperation after Jaworski had received 17 tapes and about 700 pages of documents.

It was considered likely that the prosecutor would subpoena some of the material if the White House maintains its refusal.

Meanwhile, Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., commented on Friday's indictments on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" Sunday. The Democratic whip said the indictments pose serious difficulties for Nixon because the Watergate cover-up has been brought "directly to the Oval Office" for the first time.

He said the House was moving toward an impeachment vote but "whether the votes are there I cannot say."

Grand Jury In Third Session Indicts Nine

The January term of grand jury met in its third session Friday afternoon and examined over 20 witnesses returning 15 indictments on nine defendants. All those cases presented to the grand jury were returned as indictments reported forelady, Mary E. Dumm.

A Manchester man, William Brumley, was indicted for two counts of breaking and entering and two counts of grand theft. He is charged with the burglary of Willis's Fleetwing and Grove City Farmer's Exchange, both in Derby. From the Farmer's exchange, Brumley had allegedly taken tires and from Willis's he is charged with taking miscellaneous items including cigarettes.

Indicted for aggravated burglary and grand theft, Luther Harris, Columbus, allegedly entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jink Fields and stole items valued at $1,040. Included in the list of stolen goods were television sets, stereos, and watches.

John W. Wolfe, 379 Weldon Ave., was indicted for felonious assault against Charlotte Wolfe, his former wife.

The grand jury indicted an Ashville woman, Beverly Lester, for having a concealed weapon.

Charged with the burglary of the American Legion Post, Terry Lee Adams, Washington C. H., was indicted for breaking and entering and possession of burglary tools.

Two Columbus men face charges of uttering and publishing a forged check. William Darling Jr. and Michael Miller were indicted for forgery of a stolen check.

Grand larceny charges brought by Buckeye Mart resulted in the indictment of Robert Kent Shelton, Mansfield.

In addition to the indictments listed, the grand jury returned two secret indictments. One of the secret indictments was against an undisclosed man and another against a man already indicted for another charge.

Arraignments for those indicted by the third session grand jury will be held in the near future. Those persons held in jail will be arraigned as soon as possible and other cases will be scheduled accordingly.

Presently, the court of common pleas is occupied with a civil case which is going into its second week of hearing. A jury of eight continues hearing testimony on a case involving the Brown and Kerr Company against Reynolds Metals and the Lathrop Company.

Coal Miners To Continue Gas Protest

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Gasoline was pumped into southern West Virginia over the weekend, but coal miners say that alone was not enough. Many plan to continue to stay home from work because of difficulties caused by early station closings and methods of distribution.

At Welch, Ellis England mounted the top of a car Sunday at a small overlook and told an estimated 400 coal miners they should continue their work stoppage.

No miner should return to work until federal and state officials meet 100 per cent of the needs of coal miners, England, an announced candidate for a union field representative post, said. He emphasized that Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr.'s quarter-tank gasoline distribution rule must also be rescinded.

His group was one of several such gatherings throughout southern West Virginia over the weekend where many miners decided to ignore pleas from United Mine Workers union officials to return to work. Although new federal allocations were pumped into the area, many miners still seem dissatisfied.

They contend—as does the UMW national leadership—that having gasoline is not enough. They say stations must open earlier and close later and the quarter-tank rule must be abolished.

The later stages of the meeting at Welch was spent assigning "protestors" to each mine in McDowell County. Some were to have as many as nine.

Hanoi Set To Return Bodies Of 12

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnam announced today that it will hand over the remains of 12 American prisoners of war who died in captivity.

The U.S. Embassy in Saigon said two U.S. Air Force C130 transports will fly to Hanoi Wednesday to get the remains and take them to U Taphao Air Base in Thailand for identification.

An embassy spokesman said the Defense Department would make the names public in Washington after the remains are positively identified and next of kin are notified.

North Vietnam last year gave the United States the names of 23 Americans who died in captivity and a B52 crewman whose body was recovered after his plane was shot down. But today's North Vietnamese statement did not say when the remains of the other 12 would be returned.

Meanwhile, the South Vietnamese military command reported 25 government troops were killed and 67 were wounded Sunday in two battles 35 miles northwest of Saigon and 70 miles southwest of the capital. A spokesman said only 11 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed.

Government forces have been waging offensive operations in both regions, but the spokesman claimed the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong initiated both attacks Sunday.

The battle southwest of Saigon marked the 17th consecutive day of fighting for the rice harvest along the southern edge of the Plain of Reeds.

Theft Charges Filed Against Four Youths

Four Pickaway County juveniles were arrested Saturday by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Lawrence Holt for petit theft Saturday at the Oscar Smith property on Stout Road.

The teen-agers were seen 11:20 p.m. by Ernest Weaver, Route 4, who lives next to the Smith property on Stout Road. Weaver saw a pickup truck stop in front of the Smith property where a house is under construction.

The four 17-year-olds were observed carrying plywood from the house when a neighbor yelled at the boys. Scaring the boys, they dropped the plywood and fled in the brown pickup.

Sheriff's Deputy Holt stopped the teen-agers on Route 22 making the arrests. They were released to their parents pending charges in juvenile court.

Estimated value of the plywood was $16.

Paul L. McCain, Ashville, reported to Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy J. Phillip Brown, someone took a tool box and tools Sunday, from his car parked in front of the Cardinal Market in Ashville.

The tools, taken from the unlocked car, were estimated to be valued at $75.

Indian Guides Plan Paper Drive

The YMCA Indian Guide requests that Circleville residents save newspapers for a paper drive scheduled April 27.

The drive is in support of the Pickaway County Garden Clubs Spring "anti-litter" campaign.

The guides encourage the support of both of these organizations.

Report 16 Deaths On Ohio Highways

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Highway mishaps in Ohio killed 16 persons over the weekend, three of them in a one-car wreck on U.S. 50 near Batavia.

The Ohio Highway Patrol's road death toll begins at 6 p.m. Friday and runs through midnight Sunday.

The dead:

SUNDAY

AKRON — Wayne Geriak, 24, of Akron, in a one-car wreck in Summit County.

TOLEDO — Sharon Miller, 25, Toledo, when the motorcycle on which she was riding ran into the back of another motorcycle in Toledo.

DAYTON — Beverly J. Fiorelli, Dayton, a passenger in a car that ran into the rear of a parked church bus on a Montgomery County Road.

IRONTON — Marsha Lewis, 21, Ironton, in a one-car crash on Ohio 125 in Scioto County.

BLANCHESTER — Irving Chamblis, 26, and his wife Virginia, 25, when their motorcycle slammed into the back of a tractor trailer on State Route 133.

Fire Busche As Building Director

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dan Shields, an assistant in the Ohio Department of Public Works, has been named acting director of the State Building Authority following the firing of George Busche.

Board chairman John W. Kessler said Shields will serve until a permanent replacement for Busche has been found. Shields is an assistant to Director Roland Nesslering of the state Public Works Department.

The board recently voted 2-1 to remove Busche from his post. Kessler said two members were new and wanted a different director.

Busche, a Republican, called the move "100 per cent political."

He has been at odds with Democratic officials, including Joseph Sommer, director of the Ohio Department of Administrative Services, and State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, over construction of the 41-story State Office Tower.

Busche had been supervising construction of the building in downtown Columbus. Sommer has refused to let state agencies move into the structure until it is adequately completed and Ferguson has refused to move into the building at all.

Walleye Suit To Be Heard In Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The future of walleye fishing in lakes Erie and St. Clair is the central issue in a lawsuit scheduled for a hearing Monday in Lucas County Common Pleas Court.

Two Ohio fishermen are challenging a 1970 Ohio Department of Natural Resources rule banning the netting of walleyes in Lake Erie.

Both the Ohio and Michigan DNR imposed the ban during a mercury contamination ban. Lake Erie walleye migrate up the Detroit River into the Canadian side of Lake St. Clair.

Several water conservationists have argued the two lakes contain the last major stock of walleyes in the Great Lakes system. They say the game fish will be wiped out by commercial fishermen if the netting ban is lifted.

Robert Haas, a Michigan DNR fish biologist, said commercial fishing nets were so successful, the walleye catch in the Michigan waters of Lake Erie declined from 15.5 million pounds in 1956 to 1.8 million pounds in 1960.

The president of the Ohio Commercial Fishermen's Association said, however, the decline in the walleye population was due to water pollution, not commercial fishing.

Syrians Report Heights Clash

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Syria said an Israeli engineering unit tried to advance in the Golan Heights today, and that Syrian gunners opened fire, killing or wounding an unspecified number of Israeli soldiers.

It was the first reported clash in the tense truce zone since Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger concluded a new round of mediation for a Syrian-Israeli disengagement over the weekend.

That disengagement was to be patterned after the separation pact Kissinger worked out between Israel and Egypt along the Suez Canal front.

Egyptian and Israeli forces separated along the canal ahead of schedule today.

Economy without cramps.

Buying a compact car with a six-cylinder engine can make a lot of room in your budget. If that compact car is an economical 1974 Chevy Nova 6, you'll also end up with a lot of room in your car.

"Automotive Industries' Roominess Index" says no domestic compact at any price has more head and shoulder room, front and rear, than Nova. The roomy, economical Nova 6 comes in three versatile models.

The 2-Door Nova. The Chevy Nova basic transportation system. Few cars make as much sense as this one. It's small enough on the outside to be easy to park and drive, yet has enough room on the inside for six passengers. And it's as good-looking as it is sensible. The base price for this standard 2-door coupe (shown at left) is $2647.

The 4-Door Nova

The Nova's rear seat is so roomy and comfortable some people like to get to it fast. The four-door version of the Nova 6 makes this easy. From this point on, the rear seat passengers are carried economically to their destination by Nova's proven six-cylinder engine. Just like passengers in other Nova models. You'll like Nova's sporty good looks, and like other Nova models, the four-door has traditionally maintained a high resale value.

The 3-Door Nova. You can carry people comfortably in any economical Nova 6. The Hatchback Nova 6 lets you carry lots of things around comfortably. Open the rear hatch, fold down the rear seat, and you'll have nearly six feet of flat load space. Almost like having a wagon. Six flat feet are just what you need on grocery shopping or moving days. Right?

Chevrolet has been building and refining the Nova for thirteen years now, and this year, the Nova seems to make more sense than ever. It's the car with the room you want, and the economy you need. Economy without cramps. That's the 1974 Chevrolet Nova 6.

CHEVROLET MAKES SENSE FOR AMERICA.

KROGER GROUND MEATS!

You can depend on outstanding quality. What's our secret? ... It's simple ...

1. When the label reads "GROUND BEEF ROUND" you can be sure it's ground only from the round. Our aim with fresh ground round ... 14% fat for flavor.
2. When the label reads "GROUND BEEF CHUCK" you can be sure it's ground only from the chuck. Our aim with fresh ground chuck ... 18% fat for flavor.
3. Our "Extra Lean Ground Beef" is all beef from several different cuts, freshly ground. Our aim ... 22% fat for flavor.
4. Our "Ground Beef" too, is made only from beef ... nothing added. With ground beef, our aim is ... 28% fat for flavor.

We feel it is our duty to keep our customers informed on the quality and labeling of our ground meat products including the control of fat content in our modern refrigerated meat plant under the supervision of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Not all stores can make these claims so don't be fooled. Know exactly what you're buying. Shop Kroger ... the quality meat people.

NUTRITIONAL LABELING

to help consumers eat better

Something new is being added to food labels. It's called nutritional labeling, and it is designed to help shoppers make sure their families are eating the right foods.

The amount of protein and the seven essential vitamins and minerals contained in a serving of the food product will be shown right on the label as a percentage of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance for adults. Calories also will be listed, along with grams of protein, carbohydrates and fat. Using this information, the homemaker can plan menus which will insure that her family gets 100% of the protein and the essential vitamins and minerals they need each day.

Some of the new labels are starting to appear on store shelves already. Kroger shoppers, for example, will find the new labeling on Kroger breakfast cereals, white bread and buns, low calorie salad dressings, and pork and beans. In the months to come, more and more products will bear this important information on their labels. Kroger is going beyond the U.S. Food and Drug Administration requirements and plans to nutritionally-label many of its own brand products...which are equal in nutritional quality to leading brands yet cost less. Read the labels. Let nutritional labeling help you shop more widely.

We hear you and we're trying to help!

to help consumers eat better

Something new is being added to food labels. It's called nutritional labeling, and it is designed to help shoppers make sure their families are eating the right foods.

The amount of protein and the seven essential vitamins and minerals contained in a serving of the food product will be shown right on the label as a percentage of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance for adults. Calories also will be listed, along with grams of protein, carbohydrates and fat. Using this information, the homemaker can plan menus which will insure that her family gets 100% of the protein and the essential vitamins and minerals they need each day.

Some of the new labels are starting to appear on store shelves already. Kroger shoppers, for example, will find the new labeling on Kroger breakfast cereals, white bread and buns, low calorie salad dressings, and pork and beans. In the months to come, more and more products will bear this important information on their labels. Kroger is going beyond the U.S. Food and Drug Administration requirements and plans to nutritionally-label many of its own brand products...which are equal in nutritional quality to leading brands yet cost less. Read the labels. Let nutritional labeling help you shop more widely.

We hear you and we're trying to help!
